

Offer your space as an Artweeks venue:

What is Artweeks?

Oxfordshire Artweeks, now in its 30th year, is the county's best known and longest running annual visual arts event and the largest artists and makers open studio festival in the country.

For three weeks during May, an average of 450 exhibition sites open across the county in a variety of venues and more than 1000 artists and makers take part each year.

Can all artists and makers take part?

Artweeks is non-selective and open to all artists and makers living or working in Oxfordshire or those that have a studio in Oxfordshire. Artweeks is also open to artists and makers that live outside the county but are members of an established Oxfordshire based art group, society or guild.

The application period for exhibition entries runs from September to December each year.

Artists and makers may enter Artweeks as an individual exhibition, as small groups, large groups, and non-selling groups or as a business/gallery.

What the artist is responsible for?

The artist(s) are responsible for completing their own Artweeks membership and entry form, paying all fees required to Artweeks by the closing date for entries.

Artists and makers are responsible for organising their own exhibitions including any costs or public liability cover that exhibition requires.

What would I be responsible for?

Making the venue available to the artist, as arranged with the artist.

How can I find an artist/maker?

We send a regular newsletter to our members; ideally we will include venues available in the June and September issues but we can promote new venues up until early November.

Please send a paragraph description of the venue being offered and contact details. Interested artists will contact you directly.

For further information please contact the Artweeks office, the office is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday 9.30am – 2.30pm.
